

Would You Spend $25K on a Manicure?

Ready to splurge? Discover the new nail trend that LA housewives are asking for and its' lofty price tag.

A recent article published on WBT announced that California-based nail salon, Images Luxury Nail Lounge, is offering the ultimate luxe manicure. And, if you have $25,000 to spend, you can get the royal treatment too! So, what comes with a manicure with a price tag that almost equals the down payment of a brand new Bentley? Fifty to one hundred small diamonds total, a luxury makeover and complete privacy.

Clients can choose from three diamond treatments: The Haute Couture Manicure, the Glitz and Glamimure or the Gold Rush manicure. Following selection, the salon will schedule a consultation with a jeweler and clients will then select the diamonds in the privacy of the salon, which is shut down completely for each diamond consultation and installation. If the $25,000 pricetag is a little too high for you, then you can opt for the cheap, more economic, $500 glammanicure. If you're like the rest of us, and you need that $500 for rent or something less cosmetic, then you can always get a standard manicure for anywhere between $20 to $45.
